Batch 6 and one question: where the Mirror of Erised's classroom stands; the halls' ceilings; the dungeon passage

The Architect, 14 October 2026, for Godric. Ledger lines 23 and 24, reqs 370 and 382 (docs/architect/changes.md), drawn on the castle model, version 24. Red: what changes. Q 2 taken at 3.15 am, provisional, Godric to confirm, and placed in version 24.

Q 1: inside, over the Entrance Hall, as Interiors drew it (floor 4, 1:250)

Q 2: north to the tower, one window in the front wall (floor 4, 1:250)

recommended

Question 1: where the Mirror's classroom stands (2 taken at 3.15 am, provisional)

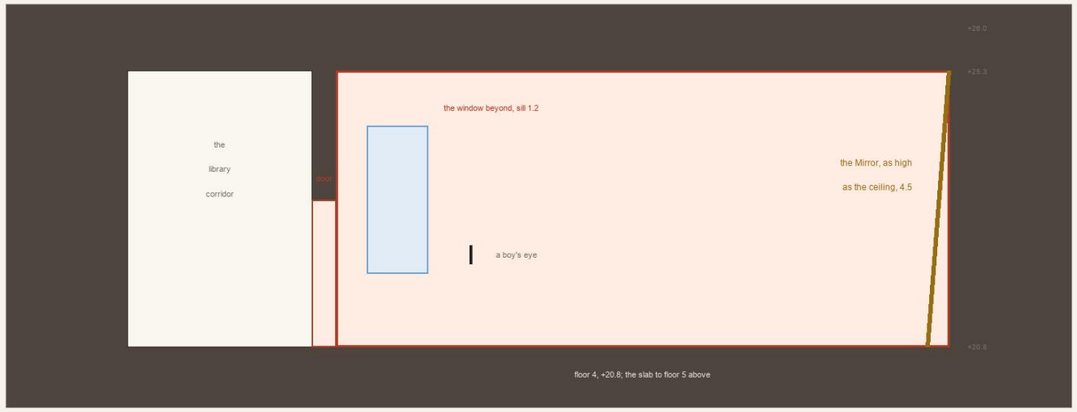

Both: floor 4 (PS 12, five floors above the kitchens), off the library corridor's east wall, on his left as he backs away from the corner ahead; 10 by 8 inside, the door centred in the west wall opening in, hinged on his right; the Mirror centred on the far wall facing him; clear 4.5, the Mirror's height; the tall armour just south of the door.

1: inside the north range over the Entrance Hall, as Interiors' key plan drew it. It meets no outer wall, so no window: the books' dark room, but the boys' day visit has no daylight and the later visit no moonlight.

2, recommended: slid 4.6 north, its north wall against the Astronomy Tower's drum. West of the drum the front wall is free, so one window, 1.0 wide, sill 1.2, goes through it in a deep embrasure at the door end of the left wall: the light falls along the room onto the glass, never behind it or facing it. Day first, moonlight later, as Magic's thread asks.

Either way the model takes the room as mirror-classroom (Events' id) and its door as mirror-door.

Option 2 in section, door to Mirror, looking north (1:100)

Line 23: the halls across the Great Hall's doors, looking north (1:500)

Req 370: level B, the dungeon passage (1:500)

Line 23 and req 370, no question: model version 24

23: the Great Hall's clear height 15.6 to 14.9 and the Entrance Hall's 10.4 to 9.7, so the 0.7 slab sits under floors 3 and 2 as everywhere else; the well's mouth from the hall 10.4 to 9.7 with it. The shells read the ceilings: both halls shot before and after.

370: the dungeon passage was a 12 m zone over Snape's office; now the 3 m strip between the office and the Potions dungeon, both doors on its walls, 0.4 thick. The rest of the dungeons stay unplaced.

